

CONSERVATION INTERNATIONAL AND IIED
CORDIALLY INVITE YOU TO ATTEND:

IMPROVING THE EVIDENCE BASE ON THE EFFECTIVENESS OF FOREST CONSERVATION AND RURAL LIVELIHOOD INITIATIVES IN DELIVERING SOCIAL AND ECOLOGICAL BENEFITS

Why do we need to improve the evidence base on the ecological impacts of conservation and sustainable development initiatives?

(Celia Harvey, Conservation International)

Evaluating the impacts of REDD+ interventions on forests and people.

(Amy Duchelle, CIFOR)

The “GEF-Satoyama Project” and indicators of resilience in socio-ecological production landscapes and seascapes.

(William Dunbar, UNU-IAS)

A review of the evidence for the conservation effectiveness of alternative livelihoods project.

(Dilys Roe, IIED)

Can small-scale livelihood projects deliver both conservation and livelihood outcomes? A case study from Madagascar.

(Tokihenintsoa Andrianjohanarivo, CI)

Understanding the social impacts of protected areas- a community perspective.

(Phil Franks, IIED)

Discussion and closing remarks

---

Monday December 12th, 1:15 PM

Marie Khan Women’s Caucus Meeting Room

CONSERVATION
INTERNATIONAL

iied

BDCCO13
SIDE EVENT 2147

